AUTORITY TO TRY SANKEY IS GIVEN TO SOUTH DAKOTA

Delivery of Desperado to State for Boettcher Trial Seen as Indication of Failure To Link Him in Lindy Case.

TWO OTHER STATES SOUGHT PRISONER

Bald-Headed Terrorist Undergoes Long Grilling on Jersey Case But Maintains Innocence.

CHICAGO, Feb. 1.—(AP)—Attempts to link him with the fatal abduction of the Lindbergh baby unsuccessful, Verne Sankey, notorious northwest outlaw, was started to Sioux Falls, S. D., tonight to stand trial for the kidnapping of Charles Boettcher II, Denver capitalist.

Guarded by five agents of the department of justice headed by Melvin Purvis, chief of the department's bureau of investigation, Sankey was loaded aboard a Milwaukee road train and started for Sioux Falls at 6:08 p. m. E. S. T.

The move came swiftly at the end of 30 hours of grilling by federal men concerning the kidnapping of Charles A. Lindbergh Jr., during which Purvis at intervals announced that nothing could be made public and that his reports were going to Washington.

Although apparently withstanding the government's questions in the Lindbergh matter, Sankey confessed, Purvis announced, that he and his gang kidnapped Boettcher last February for $50,000 ransom and young Haskell Bohn, public baby, later for $12,000 ransom.

"The chances for conviction in the Boettcher case are better in South Dakota," United States District Attorney Dwight H. Green said.

Boettcher, who named Sankey as his kidnaper, has identified a farm house in South Dakota as the place where he was held for about a month and released last March.

Green said that the removal warrant charged Sankey with kidnapping for ransom and conspiracy to kidnap for ransom under the so-called Lindbergh law passed by congress in June, 1932, four months after the fatal kidnapping of the Lindbergh baby.

The penalty for conviction is life imprisonment.

Green said Sankey would be tried in Pierre, the state capital, after the state supreme court had ruled on the constitutionality of the law.

Sankey waived extradition proceedings on condition that papers could be drawn up immediately. United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker drew the papers, Sankey signed them, and he was taken before Federal District Judge John P. Barnes, who signed the removal order.

Then began a dash for the Milwaukee road train scheduled to leave at 5:45 p. m. It was held 23 minutes for the kidnaper and his convoy of federal men.

The most insistent demands for the custody of Sankey came from St. Paul.

Public Works Board Rescinds Allotments

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—(AP)—The public works board today rescinded 20 allotments totaling $1,807,169 for construction of non-federal projects.

The reason for the rescission in each case was not given, but it was said some were at the request of applicants who now desired to abandon the projects, while others were because applicants had not met the administrative requirements of the contracts with the administration requiring that workmen be employed not more than 30 hours per week and be paid minimum wage rates.

The rescinded allotments included: Relian, Ga., loan and advance country, $17,000; York county, Virginia, grant, school, $4,000.

LOCAL:
Harold Fulcher, Byron Shaw and Charles Leach ordered held for murder by president of the United States on the national independent party ticket, was found guilty late today of assault in connection with the bombing of the New York Stock Exchange, last August. BIDS FOR $714,000 STATE ROAD WORK ARE LET BY BOARD
Bids were opened by the state highway department Thursday on $714,000 worth of road and bridge work, most of which applies on Georgia's $10,000,000 allotment of federal work highway funds.

The bids must be submitted to Washington on the federal projects before final approval. In most cases, however, the low bidders as determined by the highway board have been acceptable to federal authorities.

The letting brought to about $4,000,000 the sum contracted by Georgia under the public works program.

Another list of projects also applying on the federal program is under preparation at the highway board with the expectation that it will be advertised for letting shortly after the middle of February.

Under requirements of the national recovery act that a portion of the public works money be spent in a majority of the counties, a large part of the work on which bids were opened today went into the more or less remote districts.

37 Miles of Paving.
The projects covered 37 5-10 miles of paving of various types, nine bridges and a grading job in Warren county on the direct Atlanta-Augusta road.

Project shortened the unpaved gap between Statesboro and Augusta. Paving will be extended on the route between Tifton and Waycross by another of the projects.

The projects and the low bidders were:

9,011 miles of surface treatment in Terrell county on the Hefflin, Ala., Carrollton road, beginning at the Alabama line and extending four miles east of Bowdon and beginning at the west city limits of Carrollton and ending at the Central of Georgia railroad in that town; Hardaway Contracting Company, Columbus, Ga., $131,451.81.

4,581 miles of paving in Clayton county on the McDonough-Atlanta road, beginning at the Henry county line; Espy Paving & Construction Company, Columbus, Ga., $96,334.32.

3,708 miles of surface treatment in Fayette county on the Fayetteville-Joseph road, beginning at Fayetteville, W. C. Shepherd, Atlanta, $40,278.05.

7,484 miles of sand-sphalt paving on the Statesboro-Augusta road, beginning 10.5 miles south of Milledgeville and ending four miles south of Milledgeville and a short stretch into the city of Milledgeville; Sam E. Finley, Atlanta, $114,978.31.

4,158 miles of concrete paving on the Forsyth-Jackson road, beginning at Forsyth; Hardaway Contracting Company, Columbus, Ga., $96,334.32.

7,584 miles of surface treatment on the Tifton-Waycross road in Tift county, beginning at the east city limits of Tifton and ending at the Berrien county line; J. R. Cochran, Atlanta, $45,674.70.

3,124 miles of sand-sphalt for Lincoln county on the Statesboro-Jackson road, beginning at the Lincoln county line and ending at the Lincoln county line; Baxley-Jessup road, in Wayne county, beginning at the Appling county line; J. R. Cochran, Atlanta, $45,674.70.

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—(UP)—Eugene S. Daniel Jr., one-time candidate for president of the United States on the national independent party ticket, was found guilty late today of assault in connection with the bombing of the New York Stock Exchange, last August. ## MURDER CHARGED TO THREE IN DEATH OF 'JOCKEY' ELDER

A coroner's jury, hearing evidence of illegal rum running and reform Thursday found that H. C. (Jockey) Elder came to his death from a pistol shot fired by Harold Fulcher, alias P. P. Clay, and ordered Fulcher and two others held on charges of murder.

Byron Shaw, of 333 Seventh street, self-styled partner in "the liquor business" with Elder, and Charles Leach, 22, of 450 Boulevard, S. E., who was described by witnesses as "working for Elder," were ordered into custody without privilege of bond.

Miss Helen Barton, of Selma, Ala., told the jury of happenings at the Elder apartment Tuesday night when Elder's body was found in a chair with a bullet wound in his chest, but neither could say who fired the shot.

Saw Fulcher Point Pistol.
Mrs. Elder testified that she grabbed her sister and ran from the apartment when she saw Harold pointing a pistol at "Jockey." Her sister corroborated her testimony in most every instance.

Shaw, who didn't want to "give the names" of persons he said were in the bootlegging business, testified that he had been accused of paying someone to kill Elder.

The widow of the slain man, when asked to identify some clothing, begged the coroner:

"Don't make me look at them," and cried loudly until led from the room.

Mrs. Elder said her husband had made Atlanta his home for the past 12 months, six months of which she had been here with him. She said he left Selma, Ala., because he did not have a job.

The widow also testified that "Jockey" took the liquor business just for me.

Sold Interest to Shaw.
She said that he had promised her he would get into some honorable business and had sold his interest to Shaw. Shaw testified that he paid Elder $600 for his interest in the partnership. Officers found a bank book in Elder's clothing showing a deposit of $600.

Mrs. Elder said he had "about $100 in cash in his pocket," but officers who searched him said they found nothing.

Mrs. Elder also testified that her husband told her that "they told me they were going to do it" if he went back into business.

Questioned by Coroner Paul Donohoe, Mrs. Elder said her husband meant that he had been threatened by Shaw. Shaw testified that Elder was not popular with "90 per cent of the bootleggers in Atlanta."

Ray Holland, who gave his address as Spanish Court apartments, was detained after the inquest by officers, who said they were holding him pending further investigation.

Mrs. Elder, after the inquest, said she would leave here this morning with her husband's body for Selma, where she said funeral services would be held. The J. Austin Dillon Company is in charge.

She and her sister, she said, would return to Atlanta when called by the grand jury. They were detained after the shooting, but were ordered released later by the coroner.

TEACHER'S WIFE, DOCTOR SUICIDES

Prominent Texas Physician and University Professor's Wife Dead

AUSTIN, Texas, Feb. 1.—(UP)—Rhea Burgess Perrin, a young wife who was the "Vanity Fair" co-ed of the University of Texas in 1920, and Dr. Claude Mattingly, young married physician, were found dead in a hotel room here today, apparent victims of a suicide pact.

Twelve hours after death, their bodies were found and Justice of the Peace T. E. Johnson said both died of overdoses of morphine, a drug which contorted their faces beyond recognition.

The tragedy rocked the usually placid university campus, where Mrs. Perrin, before becoming the wife of Dr. F. A. C. Perrin, professor of psychology, was a popular student as a Dallas debutante.

The motive apparently was concealed in a note reported found shortly after the bodies were discovered, but which could not be located several hours later.

The note was reported signed by Mrs. Perrin and was handed to a friend, who declined to reveal its contents.

"I did not read it," the friend said. "It was none of my business. I do not know what has become of the note."

Known by the tragedy, Dr. Perrin, 35 years his attractive wife's senior, retired to his home, denying admittance to even his closest friends. Mrs. Perrin, a member of Alpha Omega Psi sorority, married Professor Perrin in 1921 after a romance which had its inception when she was a student at the University of Texas.

Long Adroitly Evades Mayor, Canes Reporter and Retires

Huey's Strategy Flawless As He Outmaneuvers Bulky Political Foe and Triumphs Over Smallest Newspaperman.

By HARRY FERGUSON.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—(UP)—Senator Huey Long, supported by an advance guard, an infantry patrol on both flanks and a rear guard, tested his fighting strength today by hitting a newspaperman with a cane, and then retired in good order to a previously prepared position on the senate floor where he is immune from all attacks except those of a verbal nature.

The skirmish was hailed by military strategists tonight as an unequalled triumph for Huey, because he and his bodyguard succeeded in slipping out of their hotel and evading battle with New Orleans' strapping mayor, T. Semmes Walsley, Walsley, in Washington to confer about New Orleans public works projects, has announced that he intends to "thrash the daylight out of Huey" if they meet.

Huey, with the military strategy he acquired in the battle of the Sands Point washroom, planned his campaign today with the running of a Napoleon. He knew Walsley was in the same hotel, and that there was a fair chance that they might meet on an elevator or in the lobby.

So he sent out a scouting expedition, consisting of a panicky man with a gray felt hat tilted over his eyes. The scout patrolled the hotel lobby carefully, looked behind noted palms and tested the revolving doors. Then he went back and reported that the coast was clear.

The senator descended from the fourth floor. Out stepped Huey and the four guards, looking very grim indeed. Behind a flying wedge Huey dashed out the door to an automobile. Up stepped Ray Moulden, the smallest newspaperman in Washington.

"Senator, can I ask you a question?" he inquired.

VET PAY TILT LOST INSURE PASSPORT RENEWED BY U. S.

Compromise of Additional $21,000,000 May Be Approved.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—(AP)—Senate administration forces lost the first struggle today to block new veterans' legislation and then gave out strong hints they would not object to enacting into law portions of the new presidential regulations adding $21,000,000 to the former soldiers' compensation.

The senate appropriations committee started the ball rolling for further legislation of veterans' benefits by holding such legislation would be in order as a rider to the economy clauses of the independent offices appropriation bill.

The vote was 12 to 10 and upset a 4 to 5 adverse decision by a subcommittee.

The full committee, however, upheld the subcommittee in approving restoration of one-third of the 15 percent federal pay cut now and another third July 1.

Under the government workers will get back about $20,000,000 in pay between now and July 1 and about $120,000,000 in the next fiscal year, provided the senate and house agree to it. The general sentiment appears to be in favor.

A proposal to restore the full 15 percent on July 1 lost, 11 to 10.

Four democrats, Copeland, Thomas, McCarran, McCarran and Overton, were said by a committee member to have joined eight republicans—Hale, Keyes, Nyce, Steiwer, Dickinson, Townsend, Carey and Patterson—in opposing the appropriation bill to veterans' amendments. Senator Norbeck, of South Dakota, was the only republican member not present.

The 10 in opposition were all democrats—Glynn, McKellar, Hayden, Byrnes, Tamm, Russell, Coolidge, Adams, Bankhead and O'Mahoney.

The committee deferred until tomorrow the specific veterans' amendments. The senate will decide to return to the United States voluntarily.

SENATORS SEEKING MEANS TO FORCE COTTON CROP CUT

Agriculture Committee Expected To Lean Toward Prohibitory Tax in Study Today.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—(AP)—The senate agriculture committee will seek tomorrow the best method of compulsory cotton production control with leading southern members of the committee inclined to favor a prohibitory tax on cotton ginned above a fixed baleage.

Chairman Smith, democrat, South Carolina, of the committee, said he was "inclined to favor" this plan, which is agreeable also to Senator Bankhead, democrat, Alabama, author of a bill to control production by licensing gins and distributing ginning quotas to individual farmers.

It is the gin licensing bill the committee has before it for study. The taxation plan was suggested at a hearing on the bill by Cully A. Cobb, chief of the farm administration's cotton section.

Bankhead immediately gave this proposal his indorsement, saying it was his objective to have cotton production controlled in order to assure success of the voluntary acreage reduction plan and he was willing to accept any workable plan.

Chairman Smith, in announcing the committee would meet tomorrow, said it was hoped that "some decision" would be made so that a cotton control plan could be reported to the senate.

Smith said he believed the taxation plan to be the "most feasible" and that it was his opinion there would be no question as to the constitutionality of this method.

Should the taxation plan be adopted, it would mean that the acreage reduction plan for which contracts are now being signed.

Would Fix Maximum.
Secretary Wallace would first fix a maximum number of bales to be ginned this year, probably 9,000,000. Farmers taking part in the reduction campaign would be assigned their proportionate share of bales on the basis of past production.

Should they produce more seed cotton than they planned, they would be allowed to gin it by paying a heavy tax. Under the gin licensing plan, they would not be allowed to gin more than their quota.

It was argued, however, that this would work a hardship on farmers without storage facilities for a large amount of seed cotton. This was one reason for advocating the taxation plan under which, if a farmer so desires, he may gin his cotton by paying the tax.

Farmers who do not co-operate in the acreage reduction plan will not be given a quota. Consequently they would be forced to pay the tax on any cotton they may grow and gin.

The same principle would be used in dealing with persons who have not grown cotton in recent years and who plant the crop with the hope of gaining by an increased price brought about by the voluntary acreage reduction of their neighbors. These would not be allowed any baleage to be ginned tax-free.

Discipline Sought.
One of the chief reasons for a compulsory plan, supporters of this legislation said, is to discipline those who refuse to co-operate in the acreage reduction campaign.

"Does it surprise you?" Pecora asked, when he presented the document. "It certainly does." Stair replied. "It seems almost inconceivable."

Bankhead said he knew nothing of the loans, and that he "didn't even know there were that many judges in the community."

In the previous investigation of the Guardian group of Detroit banks, evidence was presented to the committee of a large number of "policy loans" by those banks to judges, and other political figures.

Stair testified early in the day that "there was not the slightest reason for the closing of the First National bank, notwithstanding it had some bad loans."

"Over a period of two years," he said, "I should say at least $1,000,000 to $1,500,000 a week of deposits were coming out through the unfortunate publicity of the radio priest there."

SECURITIES RISE, COMMODITIES LAG ON DOLLAR NEWS

Many Bonds Reach 3-Year Highs While Stocks Are Eagerly Bought in Heavy Trading.

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—(AP)—The more the dollar recedes, the more the American dollar to a modified gold dollar has today by a brisk scramble for securities, particularly American securities, and by heavy buying of dollars.

In the New York Stock Exchange scores of bonds surged up $1 to $3 per cent and prices of new issues since 1931, in the heaviest dealings in the exchange's bond department on record, with the exception of one day four years ago.

Stocks likewise were eagerly bought in New York, many issues advancing $1 to $4 to the highest prices in years. The market was buoyant, with trading reaching the biggest volume since last July, and overwhelming the quotation facilities.

But securities markets in London, Paris and Berlin were likewise cheerful. Mining stocks particularly were in demand the world over, as the United States treasury offered to buy unlimited amounts of gold at $35 an ounce. In such widely separated centers as Johannesburg, Toronto and San Francisco, mining shares were buoyant.

Staples Slow.
Although the ultimate objective of the devaluation of the dollar to 50.00 per cent of its old parity was an increase in the American commodity price level, the response of the staples markets was less pronounced than that of securities.

The sluggish response of commodities was regarded as scarcely surprising, since monetary authorities using a higher cotton valuation as a means of lifting the general commodity price level explain that the prices of staple goods cannot be expected immediately to adjust themselves to the new gold level.

Wheat at Chicago pushed up momentarily about a cent a bushel, then lost its rise. Cotton at New York finished only 10 to 30 cents a bale higher. Such staples as silk, wool, coffee, rubber and cocoa registered gains in futures dealings at New York.

The rush to buy dollars, prevented the American currency from adjusting itself to the new parity as indicated by its gold content of 15 5-21 grains of the yellow metal. The American currency declined slightly at such centers as London, Paris and Rome, then rebounded abruptly.

Adjustment Seen.
With the gold standard operative, however, so far as international exchange transactions are concerned, it was expected that the dollar would soon adjust itself to the new gold level. At today's prices, the dollar was at a premium of about 4 per cent over the French franc, and over the sterling gold price in London, which meant that bankers could buy roughly $1.04 worth of gold in London and Paris for $1.

Bankers, after assurance that the treasury regulations would permit immediately began preparations for heavy gold buying abroad, so long as the sterling gold price in London, which meant that bankers could buy roughly $1.04 worth of gold in London and Paris for $1.

BANK PROBE BARES LOANS TO JUDGES

Pecora Reveals $639,631 Loaned to 43 Jurists by Detroit Institution.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—(AP)—The senate banking committee received evidence today that the receiver's books of the First National bank, of Detroit, near the close of last year showed loans to 43 judges totaling $639,631.

The exhibit was produced by Ferdinand Pecora, committee counsel, during the questioning of Edward D. Stair, Detroit publisher and former head of the Detroit Bankers' Company, of which the First National bank was a unit.

"Does it surprise you?" Pecora asked, when he presented the document. "It certainly does." Stair replied. "It seems almost inconceivable."

Bankhead said he knew nothing of the loans, and that he "didn't even know there were that many judges in the community."

HEAVY GOLD INFUX ALSO IS EXPECTED TO ADJUST VALUES

Administration Is Disappointed as "New" Currency Unit Fails To Drop to Proper Level in Ratio to Foreign Monies.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—(AP)—A heavy flow of gold from Europe to America and immediate use of the $20,000,000,000 stabilization fund were predicted in Washington tonight to counteract world market responses to the new Roosevelt dollar that generally fell far short of administration expectations.

Of particular importance to the president's monetary advisors, the dollar was strong in its relation to the pound and while it depreciated in relation to the franc the quotation stood well above the figures to which, theoretically it should have fallen.

Under these circumstances, and with the treasury ready to pay $35 an ounce for newly imported gold, it became highly profitable to buy the metal abroad and ship it to America. In fact both foreign and domestic banks were reported to be awaiting only an announcement of the procedure to be followed before starting a yellow tide across the Atlantic.

Bullion Standard.
The day brought from Secretary Morgenthau a description of America's revised monetary system as constituting a "new 1934 model gold bullion standard," which was elaborated to mean that holders of dollars could now convert them into gold at a specified and unchanging rate.

The newly revised monetary system by the president to 50.00 per cent of its former gold equivalent, brought an upward surge on the stock exchange. The market was buoyant, with trading reaching the biggest volume since last July, and overwhelming the quotation facilities.

But securities markets in London, Paris and Berlin were likewise cheerful. Mining stocks particularly were in demand the world over, as the United States treasury offered to buy unlimited amounts of gold at $35 an ounce. ## TELEPHONE SALARIES ATTACKED AT HEARING

Arguments in Action To Prevent Georgia Rate Cut To End Today.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 1.—(AP)—A hearing on injunction proceedings brought by eight Georgia telephone companies to prevent the public service commission of that state from enforcing its order reducing telephone rates from 10 to 15 per cent, will probably be concluded before a three-judge federal court here tomorrow, attorneys said.

During the argument today, John T. Gore, assistant attorney-general of Georgia, contended that officials of the companies were paid excessive salaries and that certain charges were made which prevented the financial reports from showing substantial profits.

Telephone company attorneys sought to show the salaries and charges were justified. During the hearing, Judge Samuel Sibley, of the fifth circuit court of appeals, interrupted to say that "neither side" has "undertaken to prove what a fair salary is."

"The burden is on the telephone companies to show reasons why the officials are paid such salaries," replied Attorney-General Gore. "They should be able to prove that the services are worth such salaries."

Arguments in the case of the Thomson Telephone Company were completed at the opening hearing today. Arguments were then started on the case of the Dalton, Douglas, Chatsworth and Consolidated Telephone companies, which are controlled by J. L. Kirk.

Injunctions are also sought by the Central, Southeastern and Georgia Continental companies. D. M. Pollock, representing the city of Monroe, La., said he would file an intervention in the Georgia Continental case when it comes up for argument, probably tomorrow. He said the intervention would be filed to preserve the lower rates for Monroe in the event the court held that the lower rates were unjustified in the other towns served by the company.

George L. Goode, a member of the Georgia public service commission, was present at the hearing.

GOVERNOR TO SPEAK ON INSIDE POLITICS

Governor Eugene Talmadge will be heard over WGST at 6:45 o'clock Friday evening in the first of a series of weekly broadcasts which will give citizens of the state the inside of political events in county, state and city government, officials of the Georgia Broadcasting System announced Thursday.

Governor Talmadge will be interviewed by the conduct of the program whose identity is closely guarded. Questions of state-wide interest will be asked. The Georgia Broadcasting System is an association of nine Georgia radio stations in Atlanta, Savannah, Augusta, Macon, Athens, Rome, Thomasville, Columbus and Albany.

The new broadcast series will feature each week an outstanding state figure who will be interviewed before the microphone. The programs will be interspersed with the latest political views and comments and in several instances predictions on important events of the future will be made.

The new feature will be carried by WGST for several weeks, after which the entire network of nine stations will join for the weekly broadcasts.

CONGRESS CLOTHES TO OPEN STORE TODAY

The new Congress Clothes store will be opened today at 79 Peachtree street, according to an announcement on Wednesday by H. L. Teitelbaum, of New York, president of the company, who came south to open several units in this territory. E. M. Walker will be manager. Associated with him is Joe Zimmerman.

New stores will be opened also in Chattanooga and Memphis. Mr. Teitelbaum came south from L. Greenberg, vice president, and the two negotiated the Atlanta lease. Congress clothes are sold nationally and the factory is in New York.

"This just year represents the first in six years that every store of the system has shown a profit," said Mr. Teitelbaum. "The fact that the three new stores are being opened in the south, Mr. Teitelbaum pointed out, is indicative itself of the faith officials of the company have in this section."

WILL WHITMIRE, NEGRO, ACQUITTED OF MURDER

After a number of prominent men had appeared as witnesses in his behalf, Will Whitmire, former janitor of the Doctors' building, and for many years chauffeur to the late W. W. Orr, was acquitted by a jury in Fulton superior court on a charge of murdering Sallie Ware, negro woman, who was stabbed to death at her home.

Whitmire was defended by Attorneys Robert F. Jones and Peter Daly. Among white witnesses appearing as character witnesses, most of whom remained in court throughout the trial, were Drs. Phinizy Calhoun, Glenville Giddings, Herschel Crawford, J. R. Barfield, Edward Shanks, Thomas P. Goodwin and Paul W. Miller, president of Atlantic Steel Company.

HAVEN't you noticed that your happiest hours occur on days when you feel your best?

Have more of these happy days. You and all your family. Guard health while you have it. Keep on the sunny side of life.

The greatest enemy of health is common constipation. It may cause loss of appetite and energy. Certainly it kills enthusiasm! Yet it can be banished by eating a delicious cereal.

Laboratory tests show Kellogg's ALL-BRAN supplies "bulk" and vitamin B to relieve common constipation. Also iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that in leafy vegetables. How much pleasanter to eat this delicious ready-to-eat cereal than to take patent medicines. Two tablespoons daily are usually sufficient. Chronic cases, with each meal. If not relieved this way, see your doctor. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

MAJOR WILEY WRIGHT TAKES AIR POST HERE

New Supervising Aeronautics Inspector Assumes Duties at Candler Field.

Major Wiley R. Wright, well-known former Atlantan, has been appointed supervising aeronautics inspector of the department of commerce for district three, and Thursday assumed his new duties at Candler field. He succeeded Leo Wilson, who had been district supervisor for many years.

Major Wright was transferred here from the office at Oakland, Cal., and will have charge of the licensing of pilots and mechanics and the enforcing of aviation regulations in Georgia, North and South Carolina, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi and in Louisiana east of the Mississippi river. His headquarters will be at Candler field.

A resident of Atlanta in 1926 and 1927, when he was associated with his brother, Hugh B. Wright, with the Clark Steamship Company, Major Wright has been an aviator for 17 years and served during the World War. In 1922 and 1923 he was director of athletics at the Georgia Military Academy and was one of the first to promote the building of Candler field and to develop aviation in Georgia. He is a member of the Yaarab Temple here and has many friends in the city.

Major Wright's wife and child, now visiting relatives, will come to Atlanta in a few weeks to make their home.

The new supervisor was formerly in charge of department of commerce offices in Butte, Mont., Portland, Ore., and Seattle, Wash. He has had vast experience in the field of aviation and has been with the department for five years.

GROCERS WILL HOLD MEETING FEBRUARY 8

Retail and wholesale grocers of Atlanta and vicinity will hold a mass meeting on Thursday night, February 8, at 8 o'clock, in the city auditorium for the purpose of electing representatives of the permanent local code authorities.

The meeting was called by Francis E. Kamper, who was appointed by the state grocery and food code authorities to organize the fifth district. Every wholesale and retail grocer in Fulton, DeKalb and Rockdale counties is required to be present.

The Georgia code committee has been organized with S. D. Candler, of Covington, as chairman; Scott W. Allen, Jack Maziar, R. L. Barge and A. E. Kelley, as members, and S. D. Mullinax as secretary.

GEORGIA POWER PAYS $216,659 CITY TAXES

February 5 pay rolls can be made, it was announced Thursday by P. Graham West, city comptroller, following payment of gross receipt taxes by the Georgia Power Company for 1933.

The company taxes were $216,659 for the year as against $230,654 paid a year ago.

West estimated the monthly payment of salaries at $350,000, including school department employees, but said other collections would provide funds adequate to meet the pay roll.

Clark Howell Named Milk Board Chairman

Formation of the Atlanta Milk Board for the purpose of determining farmers' prices for milk and the basic supply of milk in the Atlanta area, as well as to arbitrate differences between producers and dealers, was announced Thursday by Frank A. Buchanan, executive secretary.

The board consists of two representatives of the producers named by the Georgia Milk Producers' Confederation, and two representing Atlanta dealers. Columbus Roberts, of Columbus, president of the confederation, and Hugh H. Hardin, of Forsyth, vice president, will represent the producers. The dealers will be represented by B. B. George, of Pedigree Dairies, and Fred T. Bridges, of the Foremost Dairies.

These four elected Clark Howell Sr., editor of The Constitution, as a fifth member. He is chairman of the board and will cast the deciding vote where issues are made. The board's office is at 156 Alabama street, S. W.

It is expected that the board will help carry out the policies of the federal milk market license or agreement when this is established. Its immediate task is to administer the uniform marketing agreement between the producers and dealers which is already in effect.

FORECLOSURE HOLDERS ASK TAX EXTENSION

Holders of foreclosed properties appealed to the board of county commissioners Thursday for an extension of three months in which to pay taxes. Charles L. McKinney, representing holders of about 75 pieces of such property told the commissioners that if levy is made for taxes due for 1932 the county will be forced to buy the parcels in. The commission took no action on the petition, taking the position that the question is one for the tax collector.

The commission heard complaints from a number of individual employees as to salaries fixed for the new year but no action was taken. Discussion of the proposal to place all fee offices upon a budget and leave responsibility of distribution to the department head was had and will be reconsidered at the next meeting.

BANANA MIXED GRILL
makes dinner an EVENT!
Quick, Easy,
Delicious, Economical

THIS is just one of an endless number of new ways to use bananas in cooking, to lift meals out of the commonplace.

For cooking, select bananas that are yellow with green tips, or firm yellow-ripe bananas, from which all green has disappeared. Cooking brings out a different delicious flavor, and gives the meal that distinctive goodness characteristic only of cooked bananas. When yellow flecked with brown, they are at the point of full-ripe flavor—ready to peel and eat as fruit, or to slice and serve with cream, milk, or breakfast cereal.

Property Tax Cut Voted in Mississippi

JACKSON, Miss., Feb. 1.—(AP)—The first bill aimed at relieving the tax burden of Mississippi property owners sailed through the house of representatives late today with an overwhelming vote.

The measure limits the exemption of property to $1,000 of assessed valuation and 40 acres of land. For example a person owning a homestead of 40 acres of land assessed for as much as $1,000 would get a flat $8 reduction in his tax bill.

It is estimated the measure will afford some relief for 150,000 homesteaders.

Passage of a bill re-enacting the two per cent sales law was voted in the senate after arguments that consumed the entire morning session. The measure, with the $1,200 general exemption reinstated was approved by a 30-to-15 vote.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and bugant and full of sunshin.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely. But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Remotely a substitute. 25c at drug stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

income is between $10,000 and $30,000 does not have to pay more than his share of the nation's expenses, the treasury today asked for more time to study the new tax bill.

The request probably will delay completion of the bill by the ways and means committee. The treasury will submit a report within the next few days. It is understood the department feels that under the new rates—normal and surtax—incomes between $10,000 and $30,000 will bear more of the burden in proportion to higher incomes.

The committee also has yet to consider some proposed changes with regard to credits to partnerships and to life insurance companies on annuities but the question is so unsettled that committee members declined to make details public.

The committee plans to act tomorrow on the recommendation of Postmaster General Farley to continue the first and second-class postal rates which expire on July 1. The postmaster-general will send officials to testify regarding the necessity for continuing the present three-cent first-class rate on intercity mail.

Another proposal to be considered tomorrow is that of Representative McClintic, democrat, Oklahoma, for a retroactive penalty tax on petroleum produced and sold or purchased in violation of state production and federal tax laws. As tentatively outlined, it provides for a 50 per cent award to informers of sales of such oil.

Secretary Morgenthau's request for 10 expert assistants was approved today and it was decided that the new income tax rates should not be retroactive on incomes of 1933 but would apply to those in the calendar year of 1934.

NEW COMPROMISE ON BUDGET SOUGHT

City Proposes To Divert Approximately $88,000 From Charity Funds.

Adoption of a 1934 budget for operation of various municipal departments for the year appeared Thursday to be as remote as when the matter was first considered, despite another attempted compromise.

Veto of Mayor James L. Key to any proposal providing more than 30 per cent of current receipts was expected, and the finance committee will be forced under such a contingency to re-draft a new sheet if council should again sustain the mayor.

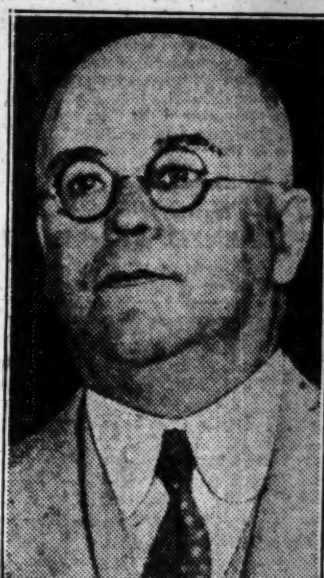

Under the latest compromise, the city proposes to divert about $88,000 from charity funds which were to have been provided through refunding city bonds due this year. Previously, administration leaders had made a commitment to Miss Gay B. Shepper, Georgia CWA administrator, that such funds would be used for relief purposes during the year and in return Miss Shepper agreed that the federal government would continue spending about $1,000,000 a month for relief and CWA work here.

Proposed diversion of the $88,000 to absorb costs of free school textbooks bought in 1932 would not meet with executive approval it was believed, and would insure an immediate veto of the proposed new sheet. J. Ira Harrelson, president of the board of education, has called a special meeting of the board for 5 o'clock this afternoon to consider the latest compromise, which among other items already enumerated provides that the school board shall be permitted to budget against the $390,000 controversial contingent fund and will agree to absorb any deficit which may develop from both a source.

The textbook row has been waged for a year and bids fair to play an important part in subsequent efforts to adopt a 1934 budget.

OSCAR PALMOUR.

Ralph Pulitzer Quits Newspaper Code Post

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—(AP)—Ralph Pulitzer, member of the noted publishing family, tonight announced his resignation as NRA division administrator in charge of the newspaper and allied codes.

"I have resigned as division administrator of the NRA," he said in a statement, "because I feel that the position to my appointment by the American Newspaper Guild would cast doubt on my impartiality in any question concerning its members which might come before me."

"Another compelling reason for my resignation is that the St. Louis Post Dispatch, of which I am a trustee and director, feels itself seriously embarrassed in either support of or opposition to the NRA and myself while I hold this appointment."

OSCAR PALMOUR DIES IN HOSPITAL

Funeral Services for Insurance Leader Will Be Held Today.

Oscar Palmour, 59, associate general agent of the Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Company and a civic leader, died Thursday morning at the Georgia Baptist hospital after a brief illness. Mr. Palmour, a resident of College Park, underwent an operation several days ago and failed to rally.

Prior to engaging in the insurance business in 1904, Mr. Palmour was at one time professor of history and economics at North Georgia College, and formerly was a part owner of Georgia Military Academy. He was a lieutenant colonel on the staffs of former Governors of Smith, Harris and Slaton and of Governor Talmadge.

Funeral services will be held at 3 o'clock this afternoon at College Park Methodist church. The Rev. W. S. Robinson and Dr. William S. Sentell will officiate. Interment will be in College Park cemetery, with H. M. Patterson & Son in charge.

Funeralbearers will be W. L. Kemp, Sam N. Carson, Stokely Northcutt, Edward Richardson, John Bradley, Charles Chalmers, Wayne P. Sewell, R. L. D. Freeman and George F. Longino.

Honorary Escort. An honorary escort will be formed by members of the Atlanta chapter of Sigma Nu fraternity, as follows: S. Russell Bridges, Bond Almond, Percy McGehee, Philip Alston, Robert C. Alston, Preston S. Arkwright, Judge M. J. Yeomans, Judge Frank Jenkins, R. Low Reynolds, Sam Worley, Cliff Hendrix, Matt Harper, Charles Edward Thomas, D. P. Weisler, Nesbit Moore, Manning Yeomans and R. A. McMurray.

Others in the honorary escort will include the faculty and student body of the University System of Georgia Evening school, and representatives from the Atlanta Federation of Women's Clubs, of which Mrs. Palmour is president.

Mrs. Murdock Walker, vice president of the Atlanta Federation of Women's Clubs' executive board, requested all members of the board to attend the funeral.

In addition to his wife, Mr. Palmour is survived by two daughters, Miss Alberta Palmour and Miss Mary Louise Palmour, and a son, William Palmour.

Mr. Palmour was born December 4, 1874, in Dougherty, Ga. He attended the North Georgia Agricultural College, Dahlonega, where he became a member of Sigma Nu fraternity, of which he was made national regent in 1920. He served in the Georgia national guard for a number of years as captain, major and then lieutenant colonel.

He was a member of the College Park Methodist church, the College Park Masonic lodge, the Thirty club and the Civitan club. He was a past president of the Atlanta Life Underwriters' Association and was vice president of the state democratic committee. His interest and influence in affairs of the democratic party were not confined to the state party but were national in scope.

Came Here 32 Years Ago. Mr. Palmour came to Atlanta about 32 years ago from Dawsonville, where he spent his boyhood. He served as superintendent of the College Park Methodist Sunday school for 18 years. His interest in education included the teaching of a class in insurance at the University System of Georgia evening school recently.

His work in the insurance field of Atlanta was begun with the Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York. He was made local manager for the Fidelity Mutual Life Insurance Company of Philadelphia and, in 1910, became general agent for the Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Company, his position as general agent being extended so as to cover the state several years later.

Mr. Palmour resigned his position as general agent in 1931 to become associate general agent, in order to obtain more time to be devoted to the interests of his clients.

Mr. Palmour remained a member of the board of trustees of North Georgia College until his death. He was associated with Colonel J. C. Woodward in the ownership of Georgia Military Academy.

Governor Talmadge said of Mr. Palmour Thursday: "I feel the death of Oscar Palmour very much. Mr. Palmour and I were good friends and members of the same fraternity, and he was a member of my staff. I offer to all of the members of his family my deepest sympathy."

CRIMINAL COURTS BUILDING, CHICAGO, Feb. 1.—(AP)—A jury empowered to impose a sentence of death in the electric chair tonight began considering the case of Roger Touhy and two associates charged with kidnapping John Factor, international market operator for $70,000 ransom. The case was given to the jury of 12 laborers and craftsmen late today following a week of testimony during which the victim, Factor, stepped from the witness stand and pointed out the three defendants—Touhy, the telegraph operator turned beer boss; Gustav Schaeffer and Albert Kator—as men he glimpsed while being held captive for 12 days last July.

The question: "Which tooth paste gives the best results in actual use?" was definitely answered by the recent nationwide Twin Tests. Recognized members of the dental profession tested the action of tooth pastes on Twin mouths, checked Pebecco's results against the results produced by the five other leading tooth pastes.

This carefully supervised test proved that Pebecco is best for whitening teeth, for removing stains and film, for polishing to brilliant lustre without scratching, for healing gums, and (by means of Potassium Chlorate) for stimulating the flow of saliva and keeping the whole mouth in vigorous, healthy condition.

Cake With a Past and a Future

Many Lands and Many Centuries Have Contributed to Produce the Cake of Today.

Cake Is No Modern Upstart But Claims a Long and Ancient Lineage.

THE PRESENT-DAY CAKE TRACES ITS HISTORY

By JESSIE MARIE DE BOTH.

Back in the Norman period in England, if we remember our history correctly, there was much good eating. The Normans were exceptionally good cooks, and one of the dainties of the time was a cake. It was a simple thing, with which they like to experiment and bread. Some enterprising cook added raisins and spices to the regulation bread recipe, and the result was a hit with his masterpiece that he kept on doing it.

It is only a short step from sweetened and heavily spiced bread to cake as we know it. Thus we find fried cakes on the menus of the monasteries, those strongholds of medieval cookery. In history pertaining to the fifteenth century there are many references to small cakes, undoubtedly large, soft cookies at first. These were served at the fourth meal of the day, the bedtime snack, so to speak. Spices and raisins were often mentioned as ingredients of such cakes. At the close of the sixteenth century, the cake was a favorite Mid-Lent Sunday dessert.

A Modern Cake That Is Not New. Our topsy-turvy or upside-down cake is most certainly descended from one made during this particular period, called a "laid pudding." It was made by alternating layers of raisins with custard-soaked, thin cakes, and was a favorite Mid-Lent Sunday dessert.

Cakes to Mark the Milestones. With the arrival of the seventeenth century, every baby had a christening cake all its very own, although it could not eat it. The company enjoyed it just the same. During this same period, which seemed to be the birthday of many such celebrations, the bride's cake was popular. At that time, this cake was a concoction and collection of many rich and aromatic ingredients. The crowning touch, perhaps the beginning of the current cynicism regarding the married state, was the icing, which was made of sugar and bitter almonds, signifying both pleasure and pain. This bride's cake was in reality the originator of the cake as we of today know it.

Yule Cakes Old and New. However, the Scandinavian countries claim this distinction, too. They maintain that the first of the great cakes of history was the Scandinavian yule cake, eaten during the festival of creation at the beginning of the year. In fact, the feast itself was eaten on the longest night of the year, called "mother night," when this marvelous cake graced every hearth. This festival was later dedicated to Thor, then to the nativity of Christ, and the fine Christmas cake became the objective of every cook of the times, each one trying to outdo the other in its preparation.

Eventually, the fruit cake as we know it today evolved from all of this keen competition, as the cooks added fruit after fruit and spice after spice to make distinctively flavored cakes. The cake was cut into slices, toasted and soaked in spices and ale.

Cakes Go Modern. Today, while we have every imaginable kind of cake in our cook books, we have but two distinct types, the butter cake and the sponge-cake variety, made without shortening of any kind. The various ingredients in either type of cake are used for definite purposes. Sugar, for instance, makes the cake tender as well as sweet. If too much is used in proportion to the other ingredients, the result is a sticky, gummy, chewy, crusty cake. Too little is just as bad, because it makes the cake dry and tough. Brown sugar, while imparting a delightfully fragrant flavor, makes the texture coarse.

With the addition of eggs to the cake recipe it becomes possible to use more sugar. As the quantity of eggs is increased, the sugar may be also. Eggs, of course, make the cake light because of their quality of viscosity, which is the property of the egg whites. The air is held by the whites and acts as a leavener.

The liquid may be water, milk, fruit or tomato juice. Water is the least acceptable, because it has a tendency to make the crust of the cake sick and sugary.

Flour and Leavening Play Their Part. When it comes to flour, there is no doubt that good light cakes may be made with bread flour, but the average woman will certainly have better "luck" if she will use cake or pastry flour. It contains more starch and less gluten. This holds true for all cakes except fruited ones, in which bread automobile agency.

8 JURORS ACCEPTED FOR RUTH DEAN TRIAL

Court Completes Fourth Day of Tedious Talesman Examination.

GREENWOOD, Miss., Feb. 1.—(AP) Eight men accepted by both state and defense were finally seated in the jury box late today after four days of tedious tales-examination by attorneys seeking an openminded panel to try Dr. Sarah Ruth Dean, handsome woman physician, on a charge of murdering Dr. John Preston Kennedy, Greenwood physician.

The defense had but two of its 12 peremptory challenges left, with four more jurors to be picked. The state had used half of its 12 challenges. The special venire of 166 was exhausted and the regular venire of 30 was called.

A second motion for mistrial was urged by defense Attorney J. J. Breland today, based on the court's refusal to allow the defense 12 additional challenges, sought on grounds that the state had violated procedure by removing two men from the jury after tendering them as acceptable to serve. Presiding Judge S. F. Davis, overruling the mistrial plea, ordered the jury examination to proceed.

Dr. Dean apparently unmoved by the impending attempt of the state to prove that she caused Dr. Kennedy's death by handing him a poisoned whisky highball, continued to watch the process of jury selection with complete repose. She sat at the defense counsel table with two women companions and a young cousin, only a few feet away from Mrs. Bessie Barry Kennedy, divorced wife of the dead doctor, who is expected to take the stand as a state witness.

959 Names Filed In Decatur Recall

Bearing 959 names, the petition seeking the recall of City Commissioners George W. Woods and R. C. Henderson, of Decatur, was filed Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Mortie Stanley, acting city clerk.

The petition was filed by Frank Thomas, chairman of a committee of 100, which obtained the signatures.

ADVERTISING FILM SHOWN TO AD CLUB

"The Golden Years of Progress," a talking picture which with homely realism tells what advertising has done to make living more comfortable and varied, was presented to members of the Atlanta Advertising Club in the auditorium of the National Theater Supply Company Thursday at 12:30 o'clock.

The picture shows a golden wedding celebration at which the grandparents and the children and grandchildren discuss the changes that have been made in the old homestead and point to the fact that advertising played its part in bringing improved kitchen and other accessories to the home.

It was shown that advertising actually lowered the price of goods by making mass production possible. Charlton Keen, president of the club, presided.

HEINZ TOMATO KETCHUP

ALONG with the salt and pepper put Heinz Ketchup on the table. The salt and pepper will be taken for granted. The Ketchup will be welcomed and enjoyed. (More people, the world over, use and love Heinz Ketchup than any other sauce that's made!)

Put it on the table regularly. Because, like salt and pepper, different people like it with different foods. Examples: The Chinese pour it on rice. In India they relish it with curried meats. And we know a man in Delaware who stirs it into his clam chowder... you never can tell.

Now the reasons most everybody just loves our Ketchup are two:

First. We are thoroughgoing about our tomatoes. We cross-breed prize seeds to get tomatoes still more luscious, still more wholesome. We rear the plants in our own greenhouses, then transplant them to fields, where we vigilantly oversee the care of the ripening tomatoes.

Second. We are thoroughgoing about our spices. We journey round the world for the rarest spices and make sure, first hand, that they are pure and fine.

These things make Heinz Ketchup so good, so delicious, so thrilling to taste that all around the world people love it best. Put it on the table. You can be pretty sure it will be reached for, poured and enjoyed.

AIR-CONDITIONING FOR RAILS GAINING

Experimental Tryouts Show Public Likes Cars Free of Noise, Dust.

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—(P)—The nation's railroads are playing what they call a trump card in the brisk competition for passenger traffic by rushing installation of air-conditioning devices.

Experimental tryouts have shown, railroad men say, that the public likes to ride in cars that are sealed from outside noise and dust, and in which the temperature and humidity are regulated both in summer and winter. Consequently, more orders for air-conditioners have been placed during the last few months than in the four years of experimentation.

A survey conducted by Railway Age, trade publication, shows that air-conditioning units for 610 cars were ordered during the first three weeks of January. This almost equals the total number of air-conditioned cars

Exclusive Gotham Club Is Said Seeking Merger

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—(P)—The Metropolitan Club on upper Fifth Avenue, founded in 1891 by the elder J. P. Morgan and with a membership list reading like the "directory of directors," is considering "a union with some club of similar standing" because of hard times, it was learned today.

A deficit of $51,435 last year has forced the executive committee to ask the membership to consider means of increasing revenues at the annual meeting February 10.

The sumptuous clubhouse is mortgaged for $1,500,000, but when a site was sought for the new Hotel Pierre the club was reported to have been offered $5,000,000 for its property.

In service at the end of 1933, which was 648.

Constant Improving.

In addition, the railroads are constantly spending money improving their tracks, straightening out curves, eliminating grade crossings, leveling off grades. Former President Patrick E. Crowley, of the New York Central, once remarked during a speech:

"It is said that a woman's work is never done. This familiar aphorism might more appropriately be applied to a railroad, for a railroad is never done, never completed."

The Baltimore and Ohio is credited with being the pioneer in the air-conditioning field. In the summer of 1929 it equipped one of its day coaches with the device, and by the end of 1933 it had 62 air-conditioned cars of its own in service. This is exclusive of the number of Pullman cars operated on its lines. Another pioneer was the Chesapeake & Ohio, which has outfitted its main trains.

Plans Announced.

The New York Central and the Pennsylvania have announced that their principal passenger trains will be air-conditioned by summer. In the west, it has been announced that all club cars, dining cars, lounge and observation cars on the principal through trains from Chicago westward will be equipped in a few months.

Installation costs vary widely. New York Central officials estimate it costs between $2,500 to $5,000 a car to equip their trains.

In its initial stages, air-conditioning was confined largely to dining cars, but now the trend is toward complete train equipment. Of the low orders placed last month, the Seaboard Air Line has specified five coaches, five coach-baggage cars, three coach-dining cars, and two observation-dining cars.

Others follow:

New York Central, 36 dining cars, 22 coaches.

Great Northern, 12 dining cars, 9 dining cars.

Atchafalaya, Topeka & Santa Fe, 14 dining cars, 10 lounge cars, 2 cafe cars.

In addition, air-conditioning equipment is being installed in 480 sleeping cars for use on the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific, the Seaboard Air Line, the Pennsylvania, the New York Central, the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy, the Great Northern, and the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western.

MAYOR KEY QUILTS TECHWOOD BOARD

Action Follows Efforts To Force Submission of Plans to Commission.

Proponents of efforts to force submission of plans for the $4,500,000 development of Techwood, Inc., to the city planning commission Thursday morning were successful in their efforts.

Mayor James L. Key declined to authorize a dispatch of a telegram to Public Works Administrator Harold L. Ickes, asking that such a procedure be followed, and when the same delegation appealed to Governor Eugene Talmadge to intercede, it was reported that they received no encouragement.

The governor declined to discuss the matter, saying only that a delegation conferred with him.

Key followed his emphatic refusal to send a telegram concerning the development with his resignation as a member of the board of directors of Techwood, Inc. The point was made that he was a director and at the same time an ex-officio member of the planning commission, he announced he would quit Techwood.

In doing so later, he explained "I have the utmost confidence in the project and in the men who are directing it, both in point of ability and integrity."

Phil McDuffie, attorney, headed the delegation which called on Key.

Text of Key's letter follows:

"I had a conference this morning with a large group of our citizens with reference to the Techwood clearance project. There were several things that they asked me to do which I could not, because I disagreed with them, but there is one point they insisted upon, which, while I do not fully agree with them, at the same time I feel like for the sake of removing myself entirely from the sphere of controversy in this situation, that I should accede to their request."

"They made the point that they desired to have these matters brought before the planning commission, and have them decided upon its merits, and that because I was a member of the commission, therefore, I should not occupy a dual position—that of a trustee of your corporation and a member of the planning commission at the same time."

"There may be some merit in this point, so in order to remove it entirely out of the field of controversy,

Court Offers To Re-Try Amy Mollison's Case

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla., Feb. 1.—(P)—Amy Johnson Mollison, the British trans-Atlantic aviatrice, has been offered an opportunity to take before a jury for re-trial the reckless driving case in which she was fined $50 and costs here Monday.

Learning that Mrs. Mollison had expressed herself as dissatisfied with the fine, County Judge Boyd L. Anderson, who sentenced the flyer, said he would reopen the case if she desired.

Mrs. Mollison was quoted from Palm Beach as saying she was not allowed to testify for herself. Judge Anderson said she was offered a trial by jury, but waived this and pleaded guilty.

I desire to resign as a trustee of the Techwood Incorporated. In doing this, however, I wish you to distinctly understand that I approve your project in so far as its merits have been shown to me, and I approve the men who are carrying it on, both in point of ability and integrity, and I heartily approve the philanthropic motive of the government in dealing this way with our slum problems, and I especially approve of the fact that the government has selected this as one of the few cities in which this character of work should be carried along in a large way.

"I hope that my action in this matter will not be misconstrued, and that you will accept my resignation in the spirit in which it is intended."

DR. SUMTER BATTEY, GEORGIAN, IS DEAD

The physician's father, William Henry Battey, was killed in the battle of Antietam while leading his men, known as the "Battey Guards."

WALTER WELLMAN.

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—(P)—Walter Wellman, 73, explorer and first man to attempt a flight across the Atlantic ocean, is dead. He had been ill for three months when death came yesterday.

Although Wellman made four attempts to reach the north pole, twice by foot and twice by air, he was best known for the attempted flight to London. It was made in 1910 and ended after 79 hours about 375 miles off Cape Hatteras.

The first flight which brought Wellman into the public eye was finding and marking the exact spot where Columbus landed on Watling island, or San Salvador.

In addition to Mrs. Wellman, who was his second wife; two sons, Walter Jr. and Francis, and a daughter, Eliza, were with him when he died. His first wife was Miss Laura McCann, of Canton, Ohio, whom he married in 1878. Five daughters were born to them.

The "real test" of the "new deal" of President Roosevelt's cabinet to an Atlanta audience Thursday night, are these:

"When in doubt, do right."

"When the water reaches the upper decks, run with the rats."

These maxims, said Mr. Kent, former Senator of Virginia, now the secretary of the navy, have added a third: "Be bold as a lion on a rising tide."

Mr. Kent did not speak in ridicule. Appearing at Emory University as the third speaker sponsored by the Student-Lecture Association this winter, he referred to the general Virginia way of illustrating the viewpoint of the practical politician. The chief difference between the practical politician and the political theorist, he said, is that the theorist creates the great mass of the voters with having intelligence, and the practical politician does not; the theorist imagines that the voter is existing by a vacuum, while the practical politician takes a catch-as-catch-can hold on the voter's sympathies, feelings, and prejudices.

Mr. Kent, who has been observing the political scene, national and state, for about 40 years, and writing trenchantly about "Politics and Personalities," which was the subject of his address, confided that he shared the practical point of view. He confided also that although he was a democrat, and had never voted for a republican president, he believed it was stupid not to be as disinterested and dispassionate as possible in writing and talking about politics.

"I have come entirely too many miles to speak to you to have any fun in being anything but candid," he said.

The enthusiasm engendered by President Roosevelt is so great that the people resent even the suggestion that they be realistic. The speed with which things are being done is so great, and the glittering baubles in the air are so many, that people haven't time to look back. The campaign promises are lost sight of; the facts that confronted congress a year ago are blurred.

"Within eight months the deficit has grown from one billion to seven billion dollars. All of it is incredible. A year ago rigid economy was urged everywhere. If a deficit of a billion dollars seemed to us to head to bankruptcy, where does a deficit of seven billion seem to go?"

"Nobody knows the answer to these questions. The people seem to live in a sort of Pollyanna paradise, intolerant of criticism, feeling safe in Roosevelt's gay assurance that we are 'on the way.' I think it fair to ask on the way where?"

"The great amount of work being done is with federal money. Ten billion dollars this year. The president has announced that this spending will be tapered off next year and that in 1936 the budget is to be balanced actually. The real test of the new deal will not come for about a year."

"One school believes that by 1936 private business can absorb the unemployed; that agriculture and industry will be restored. The other school believes the government is committed to a course of spending which can result only in inflation."

"It is as great a gamble as any nation ever took, and it must be admitted that it is being taken gallantly."

Does Mr. Kent see a disposition on the part of congress to wrestle with the new deal legislation seriously?

"Congress is colorless and supine; meek and mean-spirited. Even the republican opposition is half-hearted. Congress is a rubber stamp in the hand of the president. It was ready to sign on the dotted line without even reading the contents of the bills before it, and did. The passage of the monetary bill was an example. Only 40 members of the house and 22 in the senate voted against it. I think it is safe to say that a majority would have liked to vote against it, and I think it fair to say that not more than a few members of both houses understand it."

"The explanation of congress is two-fold. The members keep their ears to the ground; they know that Roosevelt is stronger in their own districts than they are. Too, this is a pre-election congress. All the house and one-third the senate come up for election next fall. They all want to be re-elected, and they are not taking chances.

"The strangest thing about this session is the absence of pork-barrel legislation. With the PWA forced to spend $3,000,000,000, the administration is exhausted trying to find enough projects on which to spend the money and it is more than a mere congressman can do to find where he can spend a few dollars."

"The truth is that the people fell in love with Roosevelt, much in the manner of a girl falling in love with a young man. They love his voice and his manner and his courage; they love his fine appearance, and the prodigality with which he spends their money. As long as they love him things will be all right."

"When the people fall out of love with him (during 40 years of political writing Mr. Kent has observed the people fall out of love several times) then the people will listen to facts, and the multiplication table will come into its own."

Hofmann Charms Audience Here In Brilliant Piano Concert

Josef Hofmann was reintroduced to Atlanta music lovers Thursday evening, after an absence of about 15 years, in a brilliant concert in Wesley Memorial auditorium presented by Marvin McDonald and the Atlanta Philharmonic Society. It is always dangerous to make comparisons, but in my estimation, and I believe in the estimation of most of the audience, judging from the enthusiastic reception he received for each number, it was the most enjoyable concert of the season thus far, and certainly his performances were piano interpretations after the musician's own heart. The audience was small in comparison, but its appreciation mounted to unbounded heights as the program progressed. Under Hofmann's command, the piano knows no limitations, just as technical facilities know no limitations. In his adept hands, the piano is magically transformed into a veritable orchestra, blending the most realistic effects of the different sections of the orchestra in colors that even the most imaginative never conceived as being within pianistic possibilities. With tremendous power he controlled the full orchestra, as it were, in dramatic intensity with all most no visible effort, and as easily his exquisite pianissimo sang like muted violins. And more wonderful than his manual prowess was his supreme mastery of every mood and feeling of the master that he interpreted.

In the beginning number, "Prel-

Resinol Piles Go Quick

Without Salves or Cutting

Thousands of sufferers from itching, bleeding or protruding piles have learned that quick and permanent relief can only be accomplished with an internal medicine. Neither salves nor cutting remove the cause. Bad circulation of the blood in the lower bowel causes piles. The veins are flabby, the bowel walls weak—the parts almost dead. To end Piles an internal medicine must be used to stimulate the circulation, heal and restore the affected parts.

Dr. J. S. Leonard was the first to discover a real internal Pile remedy. He called his prescription HEM-ROID, and prescribed it for 1,000 patients with the marvelous record of success in 900 cases, and then decided every Pile sufferer should be able to get HEM-ROID tablets from their own drugist with a rigid money-back guarantee.

No why waste time on external remedies or worry about an operation when Jacobs Drug Store invites every Pile sufferer to try HEM-ROID with guarantee of money back if it does not and their Piles, no matter how stubborn the case—(ads.)

Three New Pictures Presented At Leading Theaters Here Today

New pictures open their local engagements at three Atlanta theaters today. Followers of local filmdom will find Eddie Cantor and a host of lovely ladies at Loew's Grand in "Roman Scandals." At the Fox, Miriam Hopkins, Frederic March, George Raft and Helen Mack provide a foursome of leads in "All of Me," study in a young girl's fear of life and the drastic cure. And at the Paramount wives may discover how delegates to business gatherings behave in the hilarious "Convention City," with Joan Blondell, Guy Kibbee, Dick Powell, Adolph Menjou, Mary Astor, etc.

Other new pictures make their bow Saturday, at the Georgia and Rialto, while the Rialto also introduces another of the big-time stage shows, "Fanchon and Marco are now sending to this theater."

On Monday the Atlanta presents a new burlesque, "Steppin' High," with the popular "Snooky" Woods starring in her farewell week in the city. And the Capitol, also on Monday, introduces "Eight Girls in a Boat" on the screen and a new stage revue of much promise.

"Roman Scandals"

Eddie Cantor, irrepressible comic of the screen, stage and radio, stars in Samuel Goldwyn's extravagant production, "Roman Scandals," which comes today to Loew's Grand theater. Comedy, music, spectacular beauty, and a chariot race like none other in history are combined to make this a notable entertainment, with a supporting cast including the celebrated songstress, Ruth Etting; Gloria Stuart; David Manners; and many others.

These many other include, importantly, the Goldwyn girls, an assemblage of youthful loveliness designed to make every susceptible spectator's eyes goggle like Cantor's own. "Roman Scandals" is a spectacular musical film which opens in an American city where Eddie, the town ne'er-do-well, is spending the night in the new municipal museum, among statues of famous Romans of yore. A grafting city father has Eddie ejected from town, and as he plots along he is struck by an automobile. Unconscious, he has a fantastic dream which takes him back to the days of Roman splendor.

The statues he encountered in the museum live again, and Eddie, in the midst of them, becomes food-faster for the Roman emperor. This is a dangerous job, for the emperor's mistress is trying to do away with her royal spouse, and she involves the helpless Eddie in her conspiracy.

Ruth Etting sings "No More Love" in the course of the picture, and Eddie Cantor sings "Build a Little Home" and "Keep Young and Beautiful." "Roman Scandals" has been called Cantor's best film, and it unquestionably ranks with the season's best screen entertainment.

"All of Me"

"All of Me," new feature today at the Fox, is a story that requires a certain amount of understanding from its audience. It is a beautifully told study in modern love, with its fears, its struggles, its tragedies and its triumphs and to those with wit to realize its theme it will provide thought for many moments.

It is really the story of a modern girl's fear of life in the raw and the way she is taught to face every situation honestly and courageously. Miriam Hopkins is the girl and Frederic March the man she loves but is afraid to marry, because he would take her to live at Boulder dam as the wife of a struggling young engineer.

These two, on a farewell party in a New York speakeasy, are thrown in contact with George Raft and Helen Mack, two other lovers of the lower world. Raft is trying to provide for the girl he loves and she is trying to keep him straight, to remove the danger of another term in prison.

These two are driven by circumstances to the last desperate adventure in life—death—together and, watching their utter devotion and the simple fixity of their mutual faith, Miriam Hopkins learns the lesson of bold frankness with life. It is a beautifully told story and one that should be long remembered as a really intelligent and worth-while film.

Jimmy Beers at the organ this week plays the "William Tell" overture while the story the music tells is visualized on the big screen. It is the first time this has been done anywhere and is an exceptionally delightful combination of music and eye entertainment.

Short subjects include a Popeye cartoon and Borah Minnevitich and

Germany Denies Austrian Charges

BERLIN, Feb. 1.—(AP)—A denial, point for point, was made by Germany today to Austrian accusations that Germans are interfering in Austrian affairs.

It was contained in a note Foreign Minister Konstantin von Neurath handed the Austrian minister as a reply to a recent Austrian threat to appeal to the League of Nations if guarantees of her independence were not forthcoming from Germany.

The text of the communication was not made public, but officials said the German government called the problem "not one for international treatment."

Cancellor Engelbert Dollfuss, of Austria, sent his protest to Berlin January 17. The reply was said to be exceptionally long.

REPLY INSUFFICIENT, DOLLFUSS DECLARES

VIENNA, Feb. 1.—(AP)—The German answer to an Austrian note threatening to appeal to the League of Nations if "nazi terrorism" is not stopped in Austria was received tonight and discussed immediately by the cabinet.

The cabinet immediately rejected the German answer as "unsatisfactory" and issued a communication which said that failure of the German government to answer satisfactorily the specific complaint of nazi activities left the Dollfuss government no alternative but to take further action in an international sphere.

The communication did not state whether this would include a formal complaint to the League of Nations or merely a plea to the world powers.

FOREIGN SALES GAIN FOR AUTO PRODUCTS

Truck exports reached the highest valuation for this group since March, 1931. Shipments of miscellaneous automotive products gained 30 per cent over November, the highest previous monthly figure for the year.

Japanese Army Leader Denies Desire To Fight Soviet or U. S.

TOKYO, Feb. 1.—(AP)—Japan is "out for peace," General Senjuro Hayashi, who recently was elevated to the powerful post of minister of war, said today.

"I am incapable of conceiving any Japanese-American differences justifying a belief in a future Japanese-American war," the director of Japan's army told the Associated Press in the first interview since he succeeded General Sadao Araki, an extreme militarist.

Neither will Japan fight Russia "unless the war is carried to us by the other side," General Hayashi said. "We are making no preparations for war with Russia."

"Our dispositions in Manchuria are merely aimed at fulfilling our treaty obligations to defend Manchukuo," he continued, terming soviet charges that Japan planned to seize the Russian maritime province of northern Saghalien "absurd."

"No responsible officer in the Japanese army harbors any such design or ambition," General Hayashi insisted.

Discussing relations with America, he said "when the Japanese insist on increased ratios, Americans should understand that does not mean preparations are being made to fight America. We are merely trying to fill the gaps in our national defense."

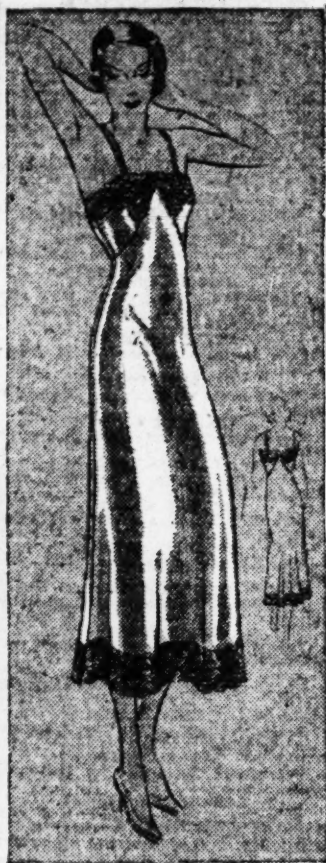

Japan's protocol with Manchukuo, he asserted, "obligates us to defend Manchukuo within its present boundaries."

"The Japanese army will not assist in any attempt to extend the territory of Manchukuo in any direction. We will not assist in any schemes to join Chahar and Hopei provinces (of China) to Manchukuo."

Barbara Bell Fashions

BARBARA BELL PATTERN NO. 1235-B
A SLIP THAT FITS.
Pattern 1235-B.

The smart slip of today is known by its fit. Not an unnecessary ripple, nor a superfluous tuck should mar the smooth surface of its close-fitting lines.

The new streamline silhouette demands that all undergarments follow the figure with the faithfulness of the frock. This restricts trimming to narrow bindings, contrasting pipings, daintily applied appliques and lace of the Alencon type, sewed on with the finest stitch possible.

Lingerie materials are very beautiful this season. And if you have a penchant for lovely things you can indulge in several slips without extravagance if you make them yourself from our pattern for today.

Many women think of satin as the fabric of luxury. They like the touch of it and find it a pleasure to launder. Crepe de chine, nylon, and cotton are popular also. These materials respond to the tailored demands of the season and are easy to take care of.

Taffeta, too, is creeping into the fashion horizon. In Paris, smart women now herald their approach with the rustle of silk. Many of the dressmakers look upon a taffeta slip in vivid colors to match the accessories, as an adjunct to a costume. For evening, however, they are made to match the dress with ruffles at the bottom to keep the skirt out. The advantages of this fashion, as well as its charm, lead us to believe it has come to stay.

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1235-B is designed in sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44. Size 38 requires 2 3/4 yards of 36-inch material. Lace for trimming as illustrated, 1 1/4 yards for the upper edge and 1 1/2 yards for the lower edge. Shoulder straps require 1 yard of ribbon. Price of pattern 15 cents.

FRANCE REJECTS HITLER ARMS PLAN

Demands Reduction, Not Increase; Offers To Cut Number of Troops.

PARIS, Feb. 1.—(AP)—France rejected Germany's offer of non-aggression pacts and charged Chancellor Hitler's program "would lead directly to an armaments race" in a note, published tonight, which was sent to the German government on January 1.

A cool reception likewise was given British and Italian arms plans which recognized Germany's claim to equality in armaments and proposed that heavily armed powers do not increase their forces.

The French note to Chancellor Hitler stressed "disarmament," official quarters said, while the German, British and Italian projects all emphasized "rearmament."

France accepted none of Hitler's recent proposals but left the door open for future conversations, and made a strong appeal to Germany to "associate herself in the indispensable policy of international collaboration within the framework of the League of Nations."

The declaration also was made that direct conversations between French and German statesmen could not settle the arms problem "which is essentially European in nature."

A solution of Franco-German differences was called "impossible to envisage" unless Germany returns to the League, from which she withdrew last

Liner Strikes Whale, Has To Back Away

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 1.—(AP)—The Dollar liner President Taft, bound from San Francisco to New York, struck a giant whale early today 1,027 miles northwest of Balboa.

"The impact was terrific," the liner's wireless operator messaged, "I thought we'd hit a rock. The boat trembled violently and the passengers all ran out on deck."

He said the whale appeared stunned after the shock and remained on the surface, forcing the President Taft to reverse and detour around it.

The French plan provides for two phases. During the first the French army would be reduced and the German army simultaneously would be transformed—both becoming eventually short-term home defensive forces with parity in numbers. Semi-military organizations would have to be considered as soldiers.

France would agree to make no more guns or war materials and to limit artillery to 150 millimeters.

During the second phase the actual destruction of guns outlawed in treaties would begin, and Germany would be permitted weapons as provided for in a new agreement.

The French object to the British and Italian plans, officials said, because they would let Germany rearm while France would simultaneously be disarmed.

LUCAS CUP AWARDED DR. CHARLES H. HERTY

Chemist Named 1933 Recipient of Trophy for Greatest Benefit to Savannah.

SAVANNAH, Ga., Feb. 1.—(AP)—Dr. Charles Holmes Herty, noted chemist and discoverer of the use of pine trees in the manufacture of newspaper and other paper, was today named recipient of the 1933 Lucas trophy, an annual award of Arthur Lucas, of Savannah and Atlanta, for the citizen of Savannah doing the most worthwhile thing for the advancement of the city.

The committee named by Mr. Lucas to make the award was Colonel E. George Butler, acting president of the chamber of commerce and vice president of the industrial committee of Savannah; Herschel V. Jenkins, president of the Morning News and Evening Press; and Mrs. John S. Hawkins, president of the Savannah Federation of Women's Clubs. The vote was unanimous.

The award is made to Dr. Herty for his successful experiment in the manufacture of newspaper from Georgia pine at the Georgia pine paper laboratory in Savannah in 1933; for his securing the interest of the chemical foundation in making its gift so that the work of the laboratory could be further equipped and operated for three more years; and for the attention that Dr. Herty's experiment has directed, not only to Savannah and Georgia thereby, but to the entire south.

The Lucas cup is a handsome cup selected by the donor yearly. The date of the presentation has not been announced but the custom has been to present it at some public gathering of citizens arranged by the chamber of commerce.

Sleeplessness

Sign You're Runtown!

When you can't fall asleep at night no matter how tired you may be—when your nerves plague you all night—it's a sign you're runtown. It may be due to sickness, overwork or worry, but when you're runtown one of the first things affected is your nerves. They become worn and frazzled and pick on you by day and night.

A runtown condition calls for a good tonic and there is nothing better than Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic. While a well-known remedy for malaria, it is also an excellent general tonic and family medicine. It contains both iron and tasteless quinine in highly concentrated form. Iron, as you know, is a noted blood-builder while quinine tends to purify the blood. Both effects are highly desirable in any runtown condition as manifested by "nerves," sleeplessness, loss of appetite, etc. Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic contains nothing harmful and is pleasant to take. Even children like it. Get a bottle today and take it regularly for awhile and see how much better you feel. Sold by all stores.

Joint Meetings and Luncheon To Be Held by Y. W. C. A. Today

Beginning a new plan today, joint committee meetings will be held at the Y. W. C. A. Administration building, 37 Auburn avenue, at 11 o'clock, followed by a luncheon and round table discussion. Mrs. Luther Rosser, newly elected president, will be in charge of the program, and Mrs. J. N. McEachern, who recently attended the cause and cure of war conference in Washington, will describe the latest developments in the nation's capital. Any member of the Y. W. C. A. who is interested in the international phases of the local association is invited to attend the luncheon served at 12:30 o'clock and to participate in the discussion.

'Knowledge Is Power,' Is Theme Of Women Voters' President

Using as the theme of her inaugural address "Knowledge Is Power," Mrs. J. O. Sanders, newly-elected president of the Atlanta League of Women Voters, made an impassioned plea for concerted action at the luncheon held on Wednesday at the Y. W. C. A. She urged the women of Atlanta to study the civic problems confronting them, and to act so that the combined force of their knowledge and number will serve to accomplish the things they set out to accomplish.

Abolish Child Labor. Mrs. Sanders spoke of the necessity for abolishing child labor permanently, of preserving or creating international relations, of intelligent settlement of the school question, and used to illustrate her points, the accomplishments after years of work, of the league during 1933.

The activities of the past year were reviewed and the program of study and work for the coming year was outlined. Outstanding among the more important undertakings of the league for the past year has been the "Get-Out-the-Vote" drive which has raised the number of voters at large in Atlanta from 8,000 to 22,000. Miss Sally Fanny Gleason, who has worked enthusiastically on this drive, has exerted great influence in this movement.

Economy in Government. Before an undertaking is endorsed by the league it is studied for a year, and the 1934 study program features constructive economy in government. The merging of counties, and consolidation of city and county government will be studied, as will be conditions in the city police station and county jail; the study of the primaries; and elections with a view to reducing the number of candidates for office.

The work program, including projects already studied, also stresses constructive economy in government. Included on this comprehensive program are the new registration bill; the simplification of city government; the per pupil basis of appropriation for public schools; the advocacy of trained workers to head the charities of Atlanta and Fulton county, and the sponsorship of the action for drivers' licenses to assist in decreasing the number of automobile accidents.

The league will be renewed and efforts will be made to gain materially increase the number of voters. Officers and board members serving for 1934 include Mrs. R. L. 66 THAT'S NO EXCUSE, GRACE! YOU KNOW HOW YOU CAN FIX PERIODIC PAIN

Periodic pain is out. So is even any discomfort at this time. That's a fact, and it's just too bad for the girl who hasn't learned how she can keep her dates, and keep comfortable. Simply do this: Watch the calendar. Just before your time, take a Midol tablet and drink a glass of water, and you may escape the expected pain entirely. If not, a second tablet should check it in seven to ten minutes. That is how rapidly this remedy works!

Midol helps those who have always had a difficult time. And the relief is lasting; two tablets see you through your worst day. Yet they contain no narcotic, nothing injurious. They're as harmless as the aspirin you take for an ordinary headache. But don't be fooled by ordinary pain tablets offered as a specific for menstrual pain! Midol is a special medicine for this special purpose. Your druggist has it on the counter—or just ask for Midol.

INSTALLMENT XXXV.

On Monday, while he lies drunk, the removal of his chief is carried out. On Tuesday, he turns informer and sets Bray upon Florence. On Wednesday, he attends the inquest and for reasons shortly to be made plain, bargains with the coroner's stenographer for a copy of that portion of Dr. Finch's testimony which relates to the measurements of the wound. That same night—Wednesday night—he confers his first domiciliary visit on this snug cottage. On Thursday, in the evening, he comes prowling again as was proven by his tracks in the powdered ashes on his porch and the scratches on his windows. On Friday night, there is a storm and he does not return, and besides, that is the evening on which he pays his disturbing call upon Florence at the hospital. Saturday is perhaps his busiest day, for on Saturday in the forenoon he tries to telephone through to Florence, and failing there, in the afternoon sends her that fatal telegram, and makes his telltale inquiries about railroad connections. And to complete the cycle, on Sunday morning he, being then properly deceased, is buried; and in the twilight of the evening, the faked miracle of his seeming resurrection is simply but satisfactorily accomplished when old Verity thinks he sees Sabino scuffling alongside Pharaoh's lane.

He thinks it is Sabino that he sees and calls out to. But who he really sees is me—me, wearing Sabino's flop-brimmed sombrero, me, hobbling just ahead of him—and if you don't believe it is hard work and painful work to scuffle along for 50 yards through a weed grown ditch and you down upon your knees, with another man's shoes strapped, so downward, over the joint of either knee and your toes held out stiffly behind you so they will not scrape and mar the trail you are intent on leaving, please take a dying man's word for it, that it is exceedingly hard and quit: painful.

I can't tell you now of which of two things I was gladder—the realization of how completely old Verity had been fooled, or the coming of the moment when it was safe enough for me to scramble behind the trees on the small comb of dry land bordering that little swamp and rub the cramp out of my tortured legs, while the doubly deceived Verity hallooed from the side of the road.

For reasons which I hope may be perfectly plain to the reader when he has read on a little further, it had seemed essential to my scheme of self-preservation that by the evidence presented before the eyes of some credible witness, Sabino, although dead and underground, should be regarded as one alive and well. This done, and successfully done, and by just so much would the contingent danger that Bray might come Sabino's vanishment with a certain other circumstance be diminished, and by just so much would my own fine prospects of getting off scot free be enhanced. In other words, Sabino must apparently not have disappeared until hours and hours after he actually had disappeared. I hope my language is not getting too involved?

At any rate, that was why I brought me to keep Sabino's hat and Sabino's shoes after I disposed of Sabino's limp body. That was why, on Sunday afternoon I drove over to Cresap's and asked Verity to tell Sabino, when next he saw him, that I craved words with him—an integral part of the planted plot, that was. And happily, that was why Verity, being on the lookout for Sabino, was all the more easily deluded when I bobbed up in the gloaming from where I had been crouched at the roadside awaiting his coming, and scuttled on ahead of him, creating an illusion which left him absolutely convinced of its authenticity.

Having told this, it seems to me now that with all save two of Sunday's concluding steps the observant reader should be quite familiar. Suffer me then, as briskly as may be—for I myself grow weary with the telling—to set down for him these final descriptions:

As may be remembered, it was at somewhere around 10 o'clock on Saturday night when I shot the old dog Peggy, and it was getting on toward midnight when, having written an entry to that effect in this narrative, I went to bed.

I slept, as it turned out, upwards of three hours. Then I found myself sitting up in bed, eyes wide open, and ears listening. What awakened me, I can't tell you, but what I did tell you is that as soon as I did awaken, there came upon me a fixed purpose to make the rounds of the house and to do it very, very quietly. Yet I could hear nothing.

I made no light. I was barefooted, bareheaded, too, for that matter. From my bedroom I entered the dining room—all dark and all quiet there. I went on into the study and it was filled with emptiness and with blackness. But as I turned toward the door communicating with the museum, I stiffened to a halt, rather like a bird dog on point, I imagine.

Between the bottom breadth of the door and the worn saddle of the door frame, was a little crack like a long, very narrow slot, and through this minute crevice came a trickle of light, playing dimly upon the floor in front of me.

I crept to that door. Very, very gently I turned the knob, luckily it was not one of those knobs having a rusty shank in a rusty socket, which cry out when you turn them. Very, very slowly I pushed the door ajar.

Sabino was in that next room. On beyond, an opened window told how he had entered. Almost behind him something else was open too—my large, flat cabinet, the one where, among other things, I kept my tomahawks and my war clubs. Its glass lid was raised and propped back and for proof that it had been ransacked, some of its contents were scattered over the trestle upon which the case rested.

Sabino had an electric flashlight in one hand. Plainly enough the inference was to be drawn that he had been examining the specimens, no doubt measuring the blades as well, with a view to ascertaining whether any one of them answered in its dimensions to certain dimensions which he carried in his mind or on paper.

But what was he doing now—down on all-fours, almost beneath my auxiliary work-bench, which stands just past the farther sawhorse that supports the trestle boards at that end? I looked and I saw what he was doing. His flash was clutched in his left hand and by the aid of its concentrated light, with a finger nail of his right hand he was scraping from between the floor planks the accumulated fluff and lint, and from this many salvage he next was plucking out infinitesimal, bright yellow morsels that glimmered like crumbs of gold. And carefully he was dropping them, one by one, upon a sheet of paper beside him. And from the doorway I heard him chuckle as his store of shiny new brass filings accumulated.

I took three long steps and had him by the throat from behind, with all my might driving my fingers in to find the jugular, and he wriggling and thrashing in my grip, but making no outcry. Only gurglings and splutterings came from him. I braced my feet widely apart and squeezed and squeezed and squeezed. Going by such poor knowledge of anatomy as I have, I figure that almost at once I must have crushed in and broken the hyoid bone.

His arms dropped, his toes beat a feeble, less frantic tattoo on the floor. I felt him going limp in my grip. I twisted the head back and I looked down into the distorted face.

Continued Tomorrow.

Pan-Hellenic Dance Took Place At Palais Peachtree Last Evening

Miss Frances Latimer and Paul Brown, of Louisville, Ky., president of the council, led the grand march of the Pan-Hellenic on Thursday evening at the Palais Peachtree, which opened the mid-term dances sponsored by the Georgia Tech International Council, with other officers of the council and their dates, including Jimmy Slocum, of Macon, vice president, with Miss Dahlis McMurdo, of Atlanta; Henry Bush, of Savannah, secretary, with Miss Lucy Goss, of Decatur, and J. B. Murray, of Dohan, Ala., treasurer, with Miss Marion Fugitt, of Atlanta.

The ballroom was elaborately decorated with lavender and white wisteria. Stately palms were placed in the corner of the ballroom. Mountain laurel and wisteria blossoms veiled the ceiling and an orchestra rendered appropriate musical selections. To conclude the grand march, the dancers formed a huge T, significant of the name of the Georgia School of Technology.

Miss Latimer was gowned in white lace posed over white taffeta, and trimmed with white fox fur. Miss McMurdo's gown was of white crepe, trimmed with rhinestones. Miss Fugitt's gown was made of white waffle crepe which was trimmed in the same material.

The chaperons included Dr. and Mrs. M. L. Brittain, Dean and Mrs. W. Vernon Skiles, Dean and Mrs. Floyd Field, Mr. and Mrs. Randy Whitfield, Mrs. W. E. Jenkins, Mrs. Edward K. ## New Notes Feature Summer Collections Of Paris Couturiers

By LUCILE MARION.

(Copyright, 1934, for The Constitution and South American Newspapers Alliance, Inc.)
PARIS, Feb. 1.—(By Wireless)—Although it will not be until next week that the more important couturiers show their summer collections, some of the houses which specialize in town and country outdoor clothes have already begun to produce their new models.

A noticeable feature is the use of cotton in all sorts of new fabrics. Many of these are coarsely woven with threads which are large and look as if they had not been twisted before being used, giving an effect of softness and also of comfort.

The colors mostly shown are pale hazelnut, flannel gray and a grayish blue for suits and coats, which are very often used in two shades. Blouses and waistcoats of contrasting colors in bright red, green or yellow give the necessary gay summer touch to these rather soft colorings.

Almost all the coats I have seen are three-quarter length and when occasionally a longer one appeared in collections it seemed out of fashion and less young and chic.

Skirts are longer than they were last season, and are about 10 inches from the ground. Most of the new skirts are very straight and narrow. Sometimes they have pleats or are fastened with really practicable buttons all the way down from the waist, either at the sides or in front.

Jackets are quite short, reaching to just above the hips and very often replaced by a bolero. The waist, although not very conspicuously below normal position, looks longer. A belt not more than two inches wide is generally worn. Sleeves are straight and plain on the jackets and on the coats, occasionally with two pleats running from the neck down the whole length to the wrists.

Blouses and sweaters, which have half or short sleeves, also are mostly plain. The shoulders have abandoned their recent extravagance and the only touch of fancy to be found on them consists of three small pinches, which stand out from the very top of the arm or else from a strap of the same material, covering the shoulder seam and finishing in a small, stiff roll.

A very high neck would be im-

H. Stuart Gibbes, of Savannah, Ga., announces the marriage of his sister, Miss Virginia Gibbes, to Fred Morris, possible in summer and it has become a charming square décolleté, marking a straight line from the shoulder to the waist, where it is often accentuated by an ornamental clip on each side. Pockets are to be found everywhere, even on robes de plage, and take all sorts of shapes, according to the general line of the garment on which they are placed.

Mrs. Johnson and Miss Johnson Feted as Guests of Dr., Mrs. Paullin

Prominent among the winter visitors in the city are Mrs. Allen Johnson and her lovely young daughter, Miss Sue Johnson, of Lynchburg, Va., who are the guests of Dr. and Mrs. Edgar Paullin at their home on Andrews drive. Mrs. Johnson and Miss Johnson arrived Tuesday by motor from Miami, Fla., where they were members of the fashionable winter colony at the Pancoast hotel for the past three weeks, and they will remain as Dr. and Mrs. Paullin's guests until Sunday. Mrs. Johnson will be remembered as the former Miss Bessie Lanier, of West Point, Ga., and she possesses a wide circle of friends in Atlanta who are cordially interested in her visit. Miss Johnson has often visited here as the guest of Mrs. William Minnich, the former Miss Caroline Paullin, who now resides in Boston, Mass. She acted as maid of honor at the latter's marriage to Dr. Minnich a year ago, and her arrival in the city is always the signal for much entertaining among members of the younger set of society.

Mrs. Johnson and Miss Johnson are being entertained at a series of informal parties during their visit by friends of their hosts. They resided in Atlanta for several years before going to Lynchburg, to establish residence in the Old Dominion.

Things That Make Home More Beautiful

Culbertson on Contract

A Delirious Thrill.

By ELY CULBERTSON
World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst.

Mr. James T. Hunter, of North Adams, Mass., seems to be able to find a very considerable number of interesting hands in his bridge play. In submitting the hand which is discussed below he remarks that all have heard of the beautiful but dumb, the innocent uninitiated, the casualness of ignorance, and asserts that all apply to the play of the hand below. He might have added that also the old adage, "Nothing succeeds like success," has an effect in application. The fact that the play was made by a tyro, without any appreciation of its purpose, of course, made some degree detract from its value. However, in the play as made, there is a lesson which good players and bad, experts, average and average, can apply to their own advantage.

South dealer.
North and South vulnerable.

South West North East
2♠ Pass 2NT 3♠
3♠ 4♠ Pass Pass
4♠ Pass Pass Pass

West's opening lead was the club queen, and when South, the tyro in question, studied the hand it was obvious that he had to be shot with luck to fulfill the contract. Certainly if either opponent had four spades to the queen-king, the contract was not makeable. The heart split of 4-1 might also defeat it. But if the spades were 3-2 and the hearts 3-2, and the ace and king of diamonds in the same hand, all might be well. This, of course, is a most optimistic expectancy.

All this went hurriedly through the mind of South—perhaps not clearly, but anyhow with the rightness instinctive to many beginners, and, basing his play upon the experience of many expert players who, when in a tight place, give up opportunity for a chance to win, South led the spade 4. West was amazed, but, reviewing in his mind the bidding and the play of the hand, he decided that East held the ace and king of spades and that if he were to play a high one East's honor might fall to him. As for West's correct reasoning!

South followed with another spade and the play of the ace-king. When the hearts broke 3-2 South had no occasion to worry about the location of the diamond honors.

TOMORROW

Drop to 26 Degrees Seen for Ground Hog

Today, Ground Hog Day, will see fair weather with a temperature of 26 to 42 degrees, and no rain, snow or sleet in prospect, the weather bureau forecast Thursday.

According to tradition, the ground hog will come out from his burrow today. If he sees his shadow, he will hustle back to his hibernation, remaining there for another six weeks. If no shadow should be cast, he will remain out, confident of an early spring.

Thursday's temperature was 32 to 46. It followed a considerable fall of sleet Wednesday night which threatened for a time to make things uncomfortable and dangerous underfoot. Thursday, however, the sleet melted. Accompanying rain registered .74 of an inch up to Thursday afternoon.

The day was cloudy with a brisk wind blowing.

Although it snowed at several points in Tennessee, this flurry failed to reach Atlanta.

January which for all but three or four days was about 5 degrees above normal, dropped to about 5 degrees below two previous Januaries due to the excessive cold on the last few days of the month. The average temperature was 45.2 degrees, which compared with 50.2 last year, and 51.2 in January, 1932.

JESSIE HOPKINS ADDRESSES GROUP AT WOMAN'S CLUB

Miss Jessie Hopkins, librarian at the Carnegie library, spoke at the monthly meeting of the literary department of the Atlanta Woman's Club at the clubhouse Thursday afternoon, with Mrs. W. F. Melton, president of the group, presiding.

Miss Hopkins gave interesting sketches of a number of recent books acquired by the library. Special mention was given to Herve Allen's "Anthony Adverse," with particular reference to the section about colonial New Orleans; Sylvester Mason's "International Book of Names," a desk book for speakers on the pronunciation of proper names obtained from original sources; "A Short History of Georgia," by Professor Coulter, which Miss Hopkins referred to as the first comprehensive history of the state, and a collection of essays entitled "The More I See of Men" being the opinion of various women about the opposite sex.

In the drama section Miss Hopkins discussed briefly Eugene O'Neill's "Days Without End," "Let 'Em Eat Cake," sequel to Kaufman's "Of Thee I Sing," a comedy of American politics, and Kingsley's "Men in White," a "very readable" hospital story. New biographies listed included "Poor Splendid Wings," by Winwar; "Flush" (the story of Elizabeth Barrett Browning), by Wolfe, and Eva
